

After viewing the body, Coroner Acricelli gave permission for its removal to the Stephen Merritt undertaking establishment. Mr. Castles was married. His wife is now at the Adirondack League Club at Little Moose Lake. With her are John, Jr., who is a student at the Hill School, and Frances, who is in her teens. They were notified late last night by telegram of Mr. Castles' death and will leave for New York this morning.

There were only a very few of the directors of the Union Trust Company in the city who could be reached last night, and those who were seen did not want to be quoted. One of the directors said, however, that Mr. Castles' death would in no way affect the trust company, as he had not been actively at its head for about six months.

"Mr. Castles' death is of course a blow to all of us," said another director when told of his death. "He was a man who we believed would accomplish much. His hard work at the start of his connection with the company made necessary by the panic, which had only just passed over when he took up his work with us, unquestionably broke his health. He was a man of robust appearance, but when he left the office in February he was undoubtedly a man sadly broken in health."

"Of course business troubles could not have had any part in his worry, as everything had been cleaned up before he left. Among his friends it was well known that his family history was the saddest and the only reason that his wife was not with him was that it was desired that he be kept as quiet as possible."

Mr. Castles was born in Polk county, Tex., about 51 years ago and after receiving a high school education went into the drug business in Waco, Tex. He became partner in the largest wholesale drug business in the Southwest, but in 1890 left that field and went to New Orleans, where he bought out the wholesale grocer business of Philip Thompson. In 1892 he became president of the Hibernia National Bank, a consolidation of several New Orleans leading banks.

W. P. Brown and other wealthy men of the South then organized what was to be the largest trust company south of Mason and Dixon's line and they elected Mr. Castles as its president. From that time on he became known as one of the ablest bankers in the South. A few years later he made the acquaintance of George G. Williams, president of the Chemical National Bank, and in 1904 when a new president for the Guaranty Trust Company was sought Mr. Castles was elected and came North. During the four years of his presidency of the Guaranty Trust its deposits rose from $34,000,000 to about $70,000,000.

In December, 1908, after the panic, Mr. Castles decided to resign from the Guaranty Trust and it was then rumored that he would become head of the Metropolitan system. E. H. Harriman, an George F. Baker went into the Guaranty Trust after Mr. Castles' resignation, and on Monday following his resignation as head of the Guaranty, December 16, he was elected president of the Union Trust Company to succeed the late Edward King. The Union Trust Company is known as Mr. Rockefeller's banking company and under Mr. King it played an important part in the days of the panic.

James T. Woodward, president of the Hanover National Bank, was chairman of the committee which elected Mr. Castles to fill the vacancy left by Mr. King's death.

Mr. Castles was director in these companies: Central Park, North and East River Railroad; Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad; Hanover National Bank; Maryland Trust Company of Baltimore; Morris-town Trust Company of New Jersey and the Northern Assurance Company of London, England. He was a member of the Boston Club and one of the directors in the New Orleans Mardi Gras.

Mr. Castles was among the most prominent of the city's business men. He leaves many friends here. He was a member of the Board of Trade and of the Boston and Pickwick clubs. He occupied a beautiful residence on Charles avenue. He married at Hartford, Conn., B. F. Eshelman, one of the best known men of New Orleans, who died at Bar Harbor about one month ago.

DAVID TO BE DEPORTED.
Diss De Bar's Cupbearer Will Be Sent to Canada by a Note Sam.

David Livingston Mackay, the cupbearer and secretary of Diss De Bar, who was arrested and taken to Ellis Island by the immigration authorities a few days ago, had a hearing yesterday afternoon at its conclusion an order was issued for his deportation. He will be sent to Canada.

Mackay admitted that he had been convicted in Bristol, Canada, back in 1897 of having sold indecent literature over the counter of a grocery store which he was running in that city. He said that he had served four months in preference to paying a fine of $100. The immigration officials learned that Mackay tried shortly after his release to get into this country by way of Montreal, but that he was turned back. After the matter had quieted down he slipped in without anybody noticing him, and only attracted the attention of the Federal authorities with the recent publicity attendant upon his arrest and conviction.

TRIED SUICIDE 18 TIMES.
Philip Rueckner Succeeded at Last With a Pistol.

QUINCY, Sept. 13.—The eighteenth attempt to take his own life, made a week ago by Philip Rueckner, has succeeded. He died to-day at the City Hospital. Rueckner had been much in the public eye the last few years because of attempts to kill himself. He had used almost every means, from poison to jumping out of a window. The last time he made three attempts in one day jumped out of a window, drank poison and shot himself, all within three hours. The shot caused death.

$13,000,000 JUMP IN BUDGET.
Bureau of Municipal Research Estimates This Year's Demands at $184,000,000.

It is estimated by the Bureau of Municipal Research that if the appropriations for next year which have been asked for by the heads of city departments should be allowed the budget for 1910 would foot up about $184,000,000, an increase of about $28,000,000 over this year's budget. The bureau sent out yesterday a list of the proposed increases by the different departments, all of which have been printed from time to time as they were received in the Comptroller's office.

There will of course be no such budget allowed as that drawn up yesterday by the bureau. The provisional estimates last year called for the expenditure of about $190,000,000, but the figures of the budget proper were about $158,000,000. The present tentative budget will also be largely cut this year. In addition to the mandatory increases such as the yearly raises of salaries in the Police, Fire and Education departments the budget this year will, under the new law, have to provide for the expenses of running the Dock Department. Hitherto this expense has been met by bond issues.

The estimated cost of administering the affairs of the Dock Department is $3,248,000. The change in the law, however, means no increase in city expenses in the end for the department's revenues which have hitherto gone for maintenance will now be given to the general fund and will add just that much to the fund now used for the reduction of taxation. From the present outlook the budget this year will approach nearly $170,000,000. The increase this year over last year's budget was about $13,000,000.

AUTO BUS STRIKES CROWD.
Six Persons Waiting to Take Bridge Conveyance Injured.

One of the big heavy automobile buses that are the only conveyances across the Queensboro Bridge crashed into a group of about thirty persons waiting to board it at the rush hour yesterday evening and injured six of them.

The bus had just made a trip to Manhattan and discharged its passengers on the north roadway. It then made a loop down Second avenue to the south roadway for its return trip. As it approached the group of waiting passengers a touring car shot diagonally in front of it from the north. In order to avoid striking the automobile Thomas O'Connell, 167 East 117th street, the chauffeur of the bus, turned to the right and ran into the crowd.

The injured were George Wolter, 69 Seventh street, Long Island City, bruised and cut foot; Emil Jauly, 687 Seventh avenue, sprained ankle; Mrs. Mary Hawkins, 164 Sixth street, Long Island City, bruised and cut about the knees; Doris Gleason, her daughter, confusion of the ankle; Frank J. Donnell, 21 Cambridge avenue, Long Island City, cut and bruised; John Garvey, 346 Webster avenue, Long Island City, fractured left arm.

All the injured after their wounds were dressed by Dr. Gramscho of Flower Hospital were allowed to go home except Garvey, who was taken to the hospital. O'Connell was locked up in the East Sixty-seventh street station charged with reckless driving.

ABRUZZI TO WED WHOM?
Princess Letitia, His Stepmother, Talks of His Settling Down Now.

MILAN, Sept. 13.—Senator Bettini, Princess Letitia's host at Brescia, is authority for the statement that the Duke of the Abruzzi telegraphed her yesterday that he is determined to take another expedition to the Himalayas in the near future.

The Princess, alluding to the telegram in the presence of Senator Bettini, said she was convinced that her stepson would abandon exploration and settle down to married life.

Senator Bettini tried to discover the Princess's meaning. He remarked jokingly that Americans nowadays triumphed everywhere. Curtius had won at the Brescia aviation meeting and an American woman had won the Duke of the Abruzzi's heart; but the Princess was not to be caught and dropped the subject.

BISHOP HENDRICK VERY ILL.
Hopes, However, Remain for Recovery of Head of Cebu Catholic Diocese.

ITHACA, Sept. 13.—A cable dispatch was received in this city to-day from Auxiliary Bishop Gerard of Cebu, Philippine Islands, announcing that the Bishop Thomas A. Hendrick, who is at the head of the Catholic diocese there, is dangerously ill.

Bishop Gerard cabled that while Bishop Hendrick's condition was improved since his first attack, he was still a very sick man. The Bishop has been in the Philippine Islands for several years. He is a member of the Supreme Court Judge Peter Hendrick of New York City.

TONG GUN FIGHTER A BAD SHOT.
AIMS AT TOM LEE'S LIETENANT BUT HITS WRONG MAN.

Old Tonga still at peace with each other, but on Leong's Tong with Four Brothers Society—Killing of Bow Kum Said to Have Started the Trouble.

When a slanted markman sent a bullet plunging through the back of Kee Gung in front of the On Leong Tong headquarters at 14 Mott street on Sunday night and the police arrested Lee Wah and Long Wah, cousins of Tom Lee, the head of the On Leongs, every one took it for granted that the old feud between the Hip Sings and the On Leongs was on again. Those who know most about the politics of Chinatown say, however, that the peace treaty between the two gangs is not broken, but that a new feud has started and that Chinatown will see much trouble before the affair ends.

The present war is said to be between the On Leongs and the "Four Brothers" society, an organization powerful in both numbers and money, which has hitherto remained in the background.

Sunday night's shooting is thought to be an outgrowth of the killing of Bow Kum, the Chinese slave girl who was found in her room at 17 Mott street on August 15 with her throat cut.

Chin Ling lived with the girl. Chin is an On Leong Tong. The father of Bow Kum belongs to the "Four Brothers." Just a few days previous to the killing, so the story runs, Lan Lang and Lan Chong, brothers and members of the "Four Brothers," came to Chin Ling and demanded $5,000 in the name of Bow Kum's father. Chin Ling was warned that if he did not pay the money both he and Bow Kum would be killed. Chin did not pay, and Bow Kum died the penalty.

At the Coroner's inquest, held last Friday, Chin Ling told this story to the jury. But the jury refused to believe him, although he was corroborated by three On Leongs, Lan Lang and Lan Chong, who were under arrest, were exonerated. The Grand Jury put more faith in Chin Ling's word and indicted the brothers Lan. Yesterday they were arraigned before Judge Malone in General Sessions, and after pleading not guilty were remanded to the Tombs to await trial.

The society of the "Four Brothers" at once started out to get even and the shooting of Kee Gung followed. Chinatown gossip has it that plans were laid to kill Tom Lee, Mayor of Chinatown by courtesy, and ruler of the On Leongs in fact. With him was to go Jim Gum, his first lieutenant.

Tom Lee has been confined to his room for some weeks by sickness and so was not one of the group that stood chatting in front of the On Leong headquarters at 14 Mott street. Jim Gum was there talking Chinese politics with his fellow On Leongs. The strange part of the story is that Kee Gung, who actually received the bullet, was there to point out to Jim Gum to the man who was to do the shooting. When Kee Gung saw Jim Gum he took a step toward him and tossed his handkerchief in his face, the signal agreed upon. The sharpshooter, however, did not aim at him but fired the shot instead to hit Jim Gum he creased Kee Gung's back with his bullet.

Lee Wah and Long Wah, cousins of Tom Lee, were arrested, but the man who fired the shot is said to be safely hidden.

Whatever the truth of the matter, the two warring gangs held a $3,000 ball each for a Wednesday. Jim Gum says he wants to make a complaint against certain members of the "Four Brothers" and Magistrate Krotzel has promised to listen to him on Wednesday.

Meantime the On Leongs have been made uneasy by the detention of the two Wahs, while the "Four Brothers" feel that they have not yet avenged the death of Bow Kum.

To forestall trouble Inspector Daly had a large force of uniformed men patrolling Chinatown yesterday. A story that the rival gangs were aiming for a fight caused Inspector Daly to send twenty men in plain clothes through the district, with orders to "frisk" every Chinaman and search every tenement. A thorough search in all the long head-quarters and in private houses brought forth no weapons, but one long man was caught on the street carrying a pistol with a ten inch barrel. He was Lee Mon Ying of 18 Mott street, a member of the On Leong Tong.

When asked why he had the pistol in his possession Lee replied that he was carrying a gun because every one else had them. He was held by Magistrate Krotzel in $500 bail for a hearing.

LIMERICK HOOK.
They Met on the Ship and Were Married Soon After Landing.

John J. Feeney and Miss Catherine Maher, both of Limerick, Ireland, were married on Saturday in the rectory of St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Brooklyn by the Rev. John A. Sullivan.

Feeney and Miss Maher were passengers on the steamship Mauretania, which arrived on Thursday last, but only became acquainted soon after embarking at Queenstown. An engagement took place in the course of the quick voyage and directly after landing Mr. Feeney lost no time in acquainting Father Sullivan, an old Limerick friend, with the situation, and plans were at once made for the marriage.

After the ceremony the couple started for Seattle.

SANTOS-DUMONT AGAIN.
Wins $300 for Five Mile Flight in New Aerodrome Which Carries 200 Passengers.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
PARIS, Sept. 13.—Santos-Dumont, the Brazilian aeronaut, who has been absent for a long time from the aviation world, has now modified his latest airship, the Demoselle XIX., and made excellent flights in his aerodrome at Saint Cyr.

Some time ago Santos-Dumont bet a thousand francs ($200) with Geoffrey, who was then experimenting at Buc, that he would win the latter place in his machine before Geoffrey would come to Saint Cyr in his flight.

Santos-Dumont won the bet this evening when, flying at a height of sixty yards, he crossed over trees and houses in the valley and reached Buc, a distance of five miles, in six minutes.

The Demoselle XIX. is only a little more than twenty-eight feet square. She carried to-night 200 pounds, which included the aviator and surface weights. Santos-Dumont has made as high as fifty-six miles an hour in this airship.

WRIGHT'S DAILY FLIGHTS.
Orville Makes 8 and 20 Minute Cruises, Then Wind Interferes.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Orville Wright made two flights on the Tempelhof Field to-day. The first flight lasted eight minutes and the second twenty.

Further flights were abandoned for the day because the wind was rising.

In one of his flights Wright took with him as a passenger Prof. Hergesell, scientific member of the Zeppelin Arctic expedition. With a view to testing the suitability of the aeroplane in recording observations in time of war Prof. Hergesell tried to write a note to a friend during the flight. He found that it was easy to do this and now expresses the opinion that photographs can be taken from airships.

Lucky Wind for the Reds in the German Army Manoeuvres.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The annual manoeuvres of the German army, which began to-day, will comprise special experiments in the application of airships to war.

The probable fate of such vessels of war as are now constructed was demonstrated at Assenstadt this evening when a Gross airship belonging to the Blue army was compelled to fly very low owing to the wind.

It became entangled in a tree and was captured by the Red army before it could be extricated.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The Social Democratic Congress began quietly to-day at Leipzig. As neither Bebel, the leader of the forward wing, nor Bernstein, leader of the revisionists, was present, there was strong probability of any decisive resolutions or dramatic scenes developing. Chairman Singer says that Bebel may appear before the end of the congress, but this is hardly likely, as he is a very sick man.

Bernstein is sulking at home because he finds little support in his party. Meantime uneasiness has been caused through-out Germany, except among the working classes, by the return of two Socialists at by-elections to the Reichstag. It is regarded as certain that popular discontent arising from the new taxes imposed under the so-called financial reform scheme will bring about the election of other Socialists from time to time until the general election of 1912, when the Social Democratic party may achieve control of Parliament.

It was announced to-day that the actual membership of the party organization is nearly 640,000 while in the electorate the party's voting strength is reckoned at about 3,000,000. There are about 15,000,000 electors altogether in the country.

Chairman Singer stated to-day that the party had decided to send $7,500 to aid the strikers in Sweden in addition to $5,000 contributed some time ago.

RIGHTS OF BRITISH SPIRITS.
Effort to Suspend High U. S. Duties Until They Apply to All Europe Alike.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
LONDON, Sept. 13.—In the House of Commons to-night Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, replied to a question in regard to the proposed American tax on spirits from the United Kingdom as compared with the tax levied on spirits from several European countries.

Sir Edward pointed out that the differentiation will cease in the course of a few months when the commercial treaties between these countries and the United States expire.

He added that the Government was considering the possibility of some action to procure a suspension of the levying of the increased duties on spirits from the United Kingdom until the treaties with the other countries lapse.
